

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Provided herein is a class of compounds with surfactant properties known as alcohol ether sulfonates. These materials are produced according to the present invention by reaction of isethionic acid or its halo-derivative with an alcohol. An alcohol ether sulfonate according to the invention is useful as a component of a finished surfactant formulation useful for cleaning hard surfaces, laundry, and dishes, among other things.